Active Ingredients

Hyaluronic Acid, also known as Sodium Hyaluronate, revives lost skin tone and returns a cushioned, hydrated youthful complexion. It is unrivalled as a hydrator. Hyaluronic Acid at the specifications we use has been proven in medical trials to penetrate deep into skin. It works very quickly and after approximately 4 days there is a visual plumping and improvement in the skin texture. Topically applied Hyaluronic Acid replenishes what is normally produced in the body. This supply depletes as we age. Hyaluronic Acid is also used as an injectable filler, one trade name being Restylane.

MSM works at a cellular level, softening skin and encouraging healthy new skin cells. The result is softer smoother younger looking skin. Laboratory studies have confirmed these findings. MSM penetrates the skin easily.

Organic Aloe Vera accelerates the regeneration of cells. It also has remarkable penetrating qualities.

As long-time readers of The Beauty Review know, I always layer my skin care products. So I am used to wearing a serum or lotion on my skin before my moisturiser so I was interested to see if I will notice an improvement after using this Gel. I'm happy to report that I most definitely did. Even after the first few days my skin glowed. I was just going through a very dry phase with the change of seasons and I found that this gel locked in all the moisture I needed and hydrated my skin, so after moisturising I didn't need anything else on my skin. I loved this gel would recommend it for anyone.

I was surprised at the packaging, a very plain clear pump bottle and it was immensely difficult to read the instructions on the back. If I had bought this full price I would have expected something slightly more aesthetically pleasing. Had I not received accompanying instructions from the Beauty Review I would have been a bit lost as to the application. The instructions stated that one pump should be sufficient for the entire face and neck, though I had to use two or three pumps.

The actual gel, however, was great, it was light, non greasy and had a cooling effect when applied. The instructions said I was able to use it under my eyes and I found that it worked as an effective eye cream without causing any milia or leaving a greasy mess. After application, my face felt slightly sticky/ tacky but the gel was absorbed relatively soon after.

I don't wear foundation but a light illuminator/ concealer under my eyes and this was a perfect base for that. There was the faintest chemical smell but you had to really sniff the product before it was discernible. I'm still quite young and this product is mainly for people who are concerned with fine lines and wrinkles so I can't comment on its efficacy in that respect. However, I think it did help promote cell turnover as my skin glowed the next morning after I applied it before bed. I would definitely purchase this product, one for myself and one for mum! I would award this gel 5 Star. ★★★★★

This bottle of Gel had air bubbles in it, which made the instructions printed on it very hard to read – plus the writing was small and therefore difficult to know what you were to do with it. It was suggested that perhaps having wet fingertips may be of assistance when applying this product. I personally had no problem with the application – it was quick and easy to use. The Gel looked as if it would be smooth to use, and it was.

The smell was inconsequential as it was absorbed quickly into my skin. It felt as if you were treating yourself. I noticed a remarkable freshness to my skin after only a few days of using this Gel – a very pleasant surprise, as I thought any claim this product made were sure to be bogus. But my skin reacted in a very positive manner; it feels and looks plumper and velvety. A very good product that more than exceeded this tester’s expectations! It’s also very good value for money – with hardly any of the bottle used, I’m sure to be a repeat purchaser!

“Smells like a hospital” were the first words to come out of my mouth when I tried it. The Gel felt nice, glossy and smooth and putting moisturiser over it as directed, it felt like all the goodness was sealed in. Even though I’ve only used it for a few days, my skin appears smoother and less lined and I look forward to seeing more results as I use it more. I think I would buy it again. If it’s going to make me look younger and have nicer skin than I’m all for it. With our climate, our skin should be a priority. ★★★★★

My first impression was really good, because I just emptied my regular serum and came along this little Mismo in the jar. I'm quite happy with the product. As the instruction said it's better to wet your finger before you apply this serum, I spray my face and finger tips with my normal aloe Vera spar so it really helps the product go evenly to my face.

And after that I apply my normal moisturiser. I also used this in conjunction with my micro dermabrasion machine and my nu skin galvanic. And any other day I used it after shower with my micro dermabrasion cloth. As with the overall result I'm not too sure that I have seen a lot of improvement. For a start I don't have many lines anyway. But I can feel my skin is softer and tighter. I'm might be considering to purchase this product again in the future. ★★★★★
